Podrobné představení kongresu

The Congress will take place on 2nd and 3rd December 2016 in Erbia Congress Center on the 27th floor of the highest building in Prague - City Tower in Prague-Pankrac. We focus on the geopolitical context of investments, mainly in the energy sector with practical impact for investment and financial companies, qualified and specialized investors and also to professional public and experienced financial advisors and private investors. We show that for meaningful investment is necessary to know not only the tools of financial analysis, as well as the global context, including the political situation and development trends.

One of the main themes are investment opportunities in the energy sector. There are several more or less important directions - oil, gas, coal, renewables, which not only individual states and government departments as well as private companies attach different weight. There is no doubt that the direction being taken by the EU is electricity, ideally from renewable sources. Energy companies are thus coming under significant pressure, which has changed the whole structure of production and replacing the central source of resources are decentralized, although they do not own, but also help to build and finance. One of the concrete overhang of Congress talk about this new situation and how such changes. Contemplation of mortgage banks – include in cooperation with energy companies to mortgage financing and energy resources? It has oil and its transportation perspective? And the same in terms of gas to longer compressed or liquefied? Questions is of course much more.

Feature of the Congress

Friday's program focused on the morning of world geopolitics and the afternoon will be devoted to a specific investment areas, opportunities and trends that meet the morning view.

Saturday's program will focus on Europe and the Czech Republic. Morning detailed analysis including energy security, political situation and stability, opportunities and trends. In the afternoon we get to the specific opportunities and trends in the Czech Republic and Central Europe.
